

This petition should be rejected! This is moving backwards not forwards. Countries all over the world have been responding to the ITU's decision to drop morse requirements by dropping morse testing in their own licensing structures. This would not rid the VE's of the additional test that they desperately want to rid themselves of. It would not encourage people to upgrade and leaves the morse hurdle to trip hams that are not gifted in languages or learning disabled. This is a bad proposal and should be dismissed.
